

The CLS filter blocks light from mercury emission lines and sodium vapors, while transmitting the majority of the visible band and the h- γ region. The filter passes all the astronomical lines of emission and spectral regions visible to the eye well adapted to the dark. Binding: 1.25 " (measurements on the Varian Cary 100 spectrophotometer, July 2015)