

Redleaf metal protective casing is an accessory that provides security for surveillance cameras. It protects the camera against accidental mechanical damage, theft or devastation. The housing fits into the Redleaf RD1000 and RD1006 surveillance cameras. Full protection of the device guarantees a solid workmanship, compact design and the ability to close the housing with a padlock (padlock is not included). The black color of the accessory makes it effectively blends in with the surroundings, and at night the camera remains almost invisible. Technical parameters: â€ weight: 610 g â€
